1-12 Parkgate Cottages
The Common
Cranleigh
GU6 8SG

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Two linked rows of 6 two storey cottages on south side of common. Late C19. Ground floors red brick. Gabled porches to paired entrance doors/side passages, in painted timber with trefoil motifs in spandrels. First floors tile hung over brick modillion course, with alternate scalloped courses to tiling. Six windows to each row, 4 pane double hung sashes, centre pairs with gablets over and end windows with full gables. Tiled roofs. Brick chimneys with stepped heads and string bands, paired at centre of each row and at the centre of the whole row. [SW125, wrongly captioned as Parkhouse Cottages, which are in Ewhurst Road].

The name Parkgate probably derives from an entrance to Knowle Park here as shown on the 1842 Tithe map.

1 to 3 Laundry Cottages
The Common
Cranleigh
GU6 8SQ

Address

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Group of 3 linked 2 storey cottages on the south side of the common. No 1 (Oakdene) is probably an early C17 timber framed house in origin. It has modern applied stonework to the ground floor and red brickwork in Flemish bond above, with a separating brick modillion course. Two casement windows, with the entrance under the left hand window. Tiled roof, hipped at the west end. No 2 (possibly late C18) projects from No 1 and has a mainly tiled façade with gable ended roof to the east, and a painted brick extension under a half hipped roof on that side. No 3 (late C19) is a plain brick gable ended building with a 3 window painted brick front to the south.

The building was used as a public house (the Railway Hotel) in the C19 and until 1910. It then became a laundry and 2 cottages. There are possible remains of fixtures for a pub sign on the upper floor of No 1. [JE17]

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

This is a nice group of two pairs of brick and tile two storey semi-detached houses with dormers, now each converted into flats. They have characteristics of the “Queen Anne” style, with rubbed voussoirs and keystones to the arched entrances, tile hanging to the spandrels of the half-hexagonal window bays, moulded cornices at the first floor, leaded lights and prominent gabled dormers. They date probably from before the First World War, and appear to be largely in their original condition. They are well worth inclusion on the List.

1-6 Legion Court
 Ewhurst Road
 Cranleigh
 GU6 7HX

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Multi-purpose building on south side of Ewhurst Road, dating probably from the late C19. A staircase leads from the road between 2 Dutch gabled lock-up shops in painted brickwork, up to the red brick gable end of the upper floor. That floor was used as the village hall until the new hall in the High Street was built in 1933. There is a brick modillion cornice to the eaves of the gable, and the original entrance to the hall is headed by a segmental brick arch with a blind shallow pointed relieving arch and vertical slit window above. The east side of the upper floor is marked by a glazed conservatory or belvedere with a pyramidal tiled roof, flanked by tile hung gables. Similar gables on west side. The lower floor of the building was first used partly as a shop and partly to house a manual fire engine, then as a club room by the Royal British Legion from the mid C20 until a new club room was built in Parsonage Road in 199* Apart from the shops, the whole building is now converted to flats known as Legion Court, with garages at the south end of the lower floor. Bay Tree Cottage
 1 Mead Road
 Cranleigh
 GU6 7BG

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Two storey timber framed cottage on north side of road. Two bay open hall house with many original features. Early C16, reclad in 1842 [JE39]. Brick in Flemish bond under tiled roof. Two windows, 3 light casements, the ground floor windows under segmental brick arches. Open gabled porch in centre. Chimney to right gable and at left rear. [SW61]

Studied in detail by DBRG and dendro-dated to 1541. From its structure it appears to be transitional between an open hall and a smoke bay was added at inception possibly as an afterthought by the owner. Diagonal mullion holes are visible in the end wall. In the outer cladding a brick was found with date 1826 inscribed in it before firing.

Possible candidate for Grade II list

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

A "T"-shaped brick and tile two storey house, gabled ended to each wing, and with "chalet" style hipped roof extension with dormer to the rear. Built as a private dwelling in the early to mid 19th century, it became a popular public house in the latter part of that century, but has now reverted to residential status. It is undistinguished architecturally, but is worth inclusion for its local historic interest. (AC 62)

Englefield
 Bridge Road
 Cranleigh
 GU6 7HH

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

A substantial two storey house built in 1902 by local builder J H Holden & Sons for the Rev'd Allan, Headmaster of Cranleigh School. The entrance is from Bridge Road, although the house fronts on to Horsham Road, where there is access across the stream by a footbridge with lattice work sides. This frontage elevation is nice and symmetrical, with two splayed window bays with moulded cornices on each floor, oversailing gables and a central chimney. Even the rainwater pipes make a symmetrical pattern. The major building material is local red brick and the vertical tiling extends from the first floor up to apex of the gables. An outshot to the east covers a recently glazed in verandah terminating the long catslide roof above it. Internally the entrance lobby has a gothic style window with diamond glazing. In the entrance hall is a fine staircase in Oregon Pine with bespoke turned banisters with cricket ball style adornments. In the sitting room the inglenook fireplace opening is framed in Oregon Pine pilasters with vertical chasings. To the rear and west side of the house are the converted servants quarters and in the kitchen the original bell pull system is still in working order.

The house was later occupied by a Major Bourne and his two daughters who ran the local Girls Friendly Society from here. From the 1950's the owner was Mrs Hooper, until the 1980's when the present owners took over.

Insert notes

Terrace of 3 two storey gable ended cottages on north side of common. Late C19. Red brick ground floor and scallop tile hanging to first floor over brick modillion course. Gabled timber open entrance porches. Four main casement windows, 3 light with segmental arches to ground floor and 2 light with gablets to first floor. Additional 4 light leaded window over porch to left hand cottage (Laurel Cottage). Two brick step headed chimneys to front of roof slope and cluster at ridge, left of centre. Half brick wall to front boundary with half-round clay pot capping. The right hand end terrace is known to be later (mid C20) but blends well with the earlier structure.

In the later part of the C19 it was home to the Trussler family who were one of the village blacksmiths.

Four Elms Cottage
Smithwood Common
Cranleigh
GU6 8QP

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Former public house (for some 200 years), now a detached dwelling, in row of detached and semi-detached houses in former Alderbrook estate. Main house of early nineteenth century appearance, double pile, two storeys with rendered ground floor, tile hung first floor, tiled roof gable-ended to right, and hipped roofed two-storey part to left. Central chimney to front pile. Victorian flat roofed ground floor extension at front with slated hipped surrounds, and further extensions at the side and rear. Original house dates from 1645, and some original timbers remain in the south-west corner, together with an early roof structure.

1 to 6 Hazelwood Cottages
 Knowle Lane
 Cranleigh
 GU6 8JP

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

An outlying row of 4 cottages and a semi-detached pair, built in the late nineteenth century to accommodate workers at the nearby Hazelwood Brickworks (now closed). The row of four in red brickwork in Flemish bond, with gault modillion and string course at first floor level, cambered window heads in gauged red brick, and steep tiled roof with two chimney stacks in panelled brickwork and modillion coursed head. The semi-detached pair gable-ended to the street with two storey extension at right angles to the rear. Built in paler brickwork laid in English bond, wide cambered window openings with splayed brick reveals, elaborate 3-course string courses at first floor and roof level, and brick "pilaster" marking the party wall end at the centre of the roof gable. Probably of mid nineteenth century date, with later porch and other additions. Included for local historic interest, and for examples of decorative brickwork.

The Hazelwood Mission Room
 c/o Osier Wood
 Knowle Lane
 Cranleigh
 GU6 8JP

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Built by St Nicolas' Church in 1900 to serve the Hazelwood District of Cranleigh. The foundation stone bears the inscription "Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us/ But unto Thy Name be the praise". The Room is a simple red brick structure, gable ended with pitched tiled roof and projecting door pendants at each end, and is of the same plan as a room given by Mr Ramsden to the parish of Shamley Green. It was able to seat 70 comfortably, with a harmonium to provide musical accompaniment. Weekly services were held to begin with, but this reduced to alternate weeks in the inter-war period. Attendance declined after the Second World War, and it was closed in June 1975. The room is now used as bed sitting rooms in conjunction with the adjoining house, Osier Wood, on whose land it was originally built. The structure nevertheless remains in its original condition, and although relatively undistinguished architecturally it is worth inclusion on the list for its local historic interest.

Kent House
75-81 High Street
Cranleigh
GU6 8AU

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Two storey house on north side of High Street now used as shops. Probably originally end C16 or early C17 [JE50]. Original house front recessed at first floor centre, rendered with 2 12-pane double hung sliding sash windows, and 3 light quadrant window at high level between. Slate roof. C19 projecting tiled roofed gabled wings to left and right, part rendered, part pebble-dashed to left, rendered to right with tile hanging to first floor side elevation. Ground floor row of late C20 shopfronts with brick plinth and continuous fascia divided by consoles and modillioned cornice over. Original timbers internally, including substantial moulded beams in original entrance, suggesting former use as institutional building. Left hand end was once Frank Winsers Tea Rooms [AC30] [SW44]

[Note: Curiously, this building does not appear on the versions of the Ordnance Survey plans of 1891 and 1913 that are printed in Cranleigh Life and Times published in 1999.]

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Two storey shop on north side of High Street. Built 1920/30. Half timbered with red brick infill, parts in herring bone pattern in side elevation in the Warren style. Gables to front and side, jettied over 4 light window bays with latticed leaded lights. Tiled roof. Projecting canopy to ground floor with arched timber framing, over semi-circular windows with brick plinths either side of entrance. Lower half hipped extension to rear with scalloped tile hanging to upper floor.

Now a charity shop but used as bakery from mid to late C20 when it was known as Hibbs. It incorporated a tea room on the first floor.

Built on site of Winsor's coal merchants [SW44]. May incorporate older buildings at rear.

Little Causey
Ewhurst Road
Cranleigh

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Two storey house on north side of Ewhurst Road, on triangular island site between the road, a green adjoining the Arts Centre on the west side, and a public footpath on the north side. "L"-shaped gable ended plan with half timbered elevations infilled in red brickwork in stretcher bond and windows with leaded lights. North-west gable jettied at first floor. Built in the 1920s by local firm Warrens in characteristic style.

The brick workshop building used as garage on the west side of the site was James Cheesman's paint shop in the early C20 [SW29]. [Contrary to the impression given in the caption to SW29, it has not yet been pulled down.] It is not shown in a photograph of 1902 [CLT89], but is marked as "Fire Station" on the 1913 Ordnance Survey plan [CLT88], but this cannot be confirmed. A photograph of 1913 shows glazed double doors to the street, now partly bricked up [AC38].

One and a half brick boundary wall of that period with rounded brick coping on footpath side of site, matching similar wall to The Causey on the north side of the footpath.

Two storey frontage building to hardware and furnishings store, and converted cottage to right. Main building originally 3 shops (one a post office) of mid C19 date, with evidence of a much earlier building. Opened by David Mann as furniture store from 1887, with ground floor shopfront rebuilt in 1900. Later lean-to extension on west side with arched red brick end and parapet above. First floor tile hung with alternate bands of plain and scalloped tiles. End gables fronting street. Tiled roof.

Converted cottage at right was Cromwell Cottage, probably mid C16. Ground floor modern bowed shopfront between red brick walling. Scalloped tile hanging to gable above, with central gothic arched latticed window and ornately carved bargeboard. Similar details to return of first floor on east side. [JE52, SW45,46, CLT26]

Old Baptist Chapel
 The Common
 Cranleigh
 GU6 8SH

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Former chapel on east side of common, set back behind frontage cottages. Red brick in English bond, with modillion course to end gables and eaves, and later gabled entrance porch with carved bargeboard to south elevation. Vestries in extension to west under catslide roof. Round arched windows to either side of entrance and to south elevation of extension. Further half round blocked window at centre of gable above porch, with further small arched opening above.

The Baptist chapel and the adjoining burial ground were opened in 1828, and was the first nonconformist church in Cranleigh. The pastor was George Holden. The chapel grounds were subject to a two thousand-year lease, which commenced in 1603 or 1613. The payment for this lease was one red rose per year. Prior to this, Pear Tree Cottage on the common was used for Baptist or Anabaptist services. [SW19, JE5] After the new Baptist Church was built in 1889 the chapel was used as a storeroom and meeting place. It became disused in the 1970s, and was then used by the Cranleigh Youth Band as a bandroom until the new bandroom was opened in 1986 in Village Way. It has now been converted to a dwelling.

Vault in Churchyard
 St Nicolas' Churchyard
 Cranleigh
 GU6 8AS

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Above and below ground stone vault in west side of the churchyard. Designed by Henry Woodyer in 1864 as the private vault of the family of the Rev'd Thomas Thurlow, resident at Baynards from 1832 to 1874 and benefactor of the church. The transepts and organ chamber in the church were also designed by Woodyer and were constructed in 1866-7 at Thurlow's expense.

The vault is inscribed only, in a plaque on the east elevation, with the name of Mary Elma Anstruther of Chelsea (d 1893). From Parish Registers, interments are believed to include Thurlow himself and three other members of his family, and four members of the family of his great-nephew, Thomas Hovell Thurlow Cumming-Bruce, the 5th Baron Thurlow (a daughter, the Baron himself, a son, and his widow, Baroness Thurlow). The Barony was created in 1792 for the Rev'd Thomas Thurlow's uncle, Edward Thurlow, who was Lord Chancellor in 1778. Mary Elma Anstruther was another daughter of the 5th Baron, but was buried elsewhere. Plaques in the church suggest that members of the Waller family, who succeeded the Thurlows at Baynards, were also buried in this vault.

The vault is roofed in large stone sloping slabs, with a plain stone cross at the ends of the gables. The west elevation has an arch with a zig-zag pattern, and 2 smaller blank arches on either side. The east elevation is plain. Faculty drawings show the structure extending 3 feet below ground level with columns supporting the roof, and steps down to a central entrance, now blocked up, below the arch on the west side.

The Village Hall
 36 High Street
 Cranleigh
 GU6 8AF

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Set back from south side of High Street. Built in 1933 as a memorial to villagers killed in World War I. Red brick with gabled half timbered front with white painted infill. Apex of gable projects over multipane latticed window. Hipped projecting entrance bay and centre gable over porte cochere, all also half timbered. East elevation of brick panels between buttresses, the upper parts of the 2 end panels with half timbering, the remainder 4 panels having latticed windows, the end 2 windows surmounted by half timbered gablets. The west elevation a modern extension under a catslide roof.

Funds were raised by donations and the land was given by a local benefactor. The hall has been at the centre of community functions ever since.

On the exterior a metal weather vane surmounts the porch and is dedicated to 21 years of friendship between Cranleigh and Vallendar in Germany.

Also on a raised area in front of the building is metal sculpture commemorating the Millennium in 2000. Buried beneath is time capsule with contributions from local organisations

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

A complex building, the original part of two storeys in coursed rubble with brick dressings, a taller two storey projecting gabled ended extension to right with rendered ground floor and patterned tiling to first floor, and a modern single storey extension to left, all with tiled roofs. A prominent feature is the two storey angled window bay with latticed glazing and hipped tiled roof in the centre of the gabled extension, giving it something of a "Queen Anne" styling. Also of interest, in the original part, are the multi-pane metal casements to the three first floor windows, and the wavy barge boards to the gables over the two outer windows. Probably of the early nineteenth century with late nineteenth century and twentieth century extensions. Timber barn on ironstone base to the left of the single storey extension is a grade II listed building, described as of the C17 with C19 alterations.

Yew Tree House
 Horsham Road
 Cranleigh
 GU6 8DP

Description, Period, Style, Materials, Original / Current Use, Features, History:

Imposing 3 storey house, now divided into flats, on north side of Horsham Road, to the west of Lucks Green. Red brick with scallop tile hanging to upper floors and gable ended tiled roof. Late C19. Second floor windows with gablets, the centre window in a projecting bay with half timbered spandrel to the gablet. Similar window at head of all brick projecting bay to right. Three windows, double hung sashes to ground and first floors and casements to second floor and to east side of projecting bay. Ground floor and ground and first floor windows under shallow arches with voussoirs, the remainder with moulded surrounds. Tiled pentice over centre door on south elevation.

Originally built around 1890 for Mr Stephen Rowland who is said to be one of the founders of modern Cranleigh having laid out the New Park Estate and founded both the water and gas companies [MM].

Attached left is Yew Tree Cottage, a 2 storey, probably earlier, gabled house in similar style, with attached extension on left side under lean-to roof, used as a veterinary surgery. [Visible in background of SW7] The yew tree still standing in front is shown in old photographs with a clipped top in the shape of a cockerel, reflecting the weather cock on the church tower.
